NORFOLK/VIRGINIA BEACH/NEWPORT NEWS MSA
NOW AMERICA'S 28th MARKET! U.S. CENSUS BUREAU 7/30/86
...where No. 2 becomes No. 1!

A glance at the market shows the Daily Press/The Times-Herald with about 23% coverage of the MSA but that's woefully misleading. The very waterways that contribute to our desirable lifestyle also divide us into two distinct geographic areas. Upper & Lower Hampton Roads. We're the Upper half, with 75.1% net unduplicated coverage of all adults daily and 78.4% Sunday. New York newspapers reach less than 1% in "our half" of the MSA. That's why it takes both sets of newspapers to reach all of the nation's 28th largest market: Norfolk/Virginia Beach/Newport News!

Education pays in New England

WHERE WELL-GROUNDED GRADUATES EARN WELL-ROUNDED INCOMES

Because of the excellence of New England's educational institutions, brain, not brawn dominates the employment picture here. From the ivied quadrangles and ultra-modern campus complexes of more than 200 colleges and universities every year, thousands of young people emerge to fill important roles in the high-tech research and manufacturing, finance, insurance and service industries that now flourish in the New England states.

As a result of the connection between education and industry, unemployment here is the lowest in the nation, and competition for the highly-trained product of New England's colleges raises incomes to levels not exceeded in any other U.S. region. Small wonder, then, that New England food and retail sales per-household are highest in the nation, or that New England newspapers, with better-then-average household coverage, produce outstanding results for advertisers.

There's an easy way to keep up with the country's No. 1 advertising medium . . . NEWSPAPERS. READ EDITOR & PUBLISHER.

The more you know about the proper use of media—and the media mix—the more successful you'll be in your marketing job. That's why you should be reading E&P every week, with all the latest news and information about newspapers, the primary advertising medium.

E&P brings you newspaper news every week—advertising, circulation, format, finance, markets, people, production systems.

What's more, in feature sections and special issues, Editor & Publisher regularly supplies you with important newspaper information and figures not available anywhere else: Monthly advertising linage figures on key newspaper markets, a weekly section on mechanical equipment, special financial data, and much more. To order, use the convenient bind-in card in Section II.

The irony of research

Basic biomedical research, the kind of research that has brought us the polio vaccine, open-heart surgery, kidney dialysis and antibiotics, is not in the best of health.

What an irony: The very enterprise that has done so much to improve this nation's health is now in real danger itself.

And as with many other things, the source of this trouble is lack of money; money that is urgently needed, especially by voluntary health agencies like the American Heart Association.

This nation simply is not spending enough on basic biomedical research. If you consider the nation's total expenditures on health care, the total allocation to research amounts to only two cents of every health dollar.

The financial crunch is so severe that today's scientists with promising, approved research projects cannot find financial support for their proposed investigations. As a result, vital science is not getting done. Research momentum is slowing down.

That's where the American Heart Association comes in. Since its beginning, the American Heart Association has contributed a third of a billion dollars to support heart disease and stroke research.

The American Heart Association support has not only been stable, allowing research projects to continue uninterrupted and to plan for future ones, but it has been innovative. For example, we established the Career Investigatorship Program, fellowships and a national Grant-in-Aid program which supports hundreds of research projects.

And to attract more young physicians with clinical (patient care) backgrounds to do basic research, the American Heart Association instituted the Clinician Scientist Award.

Voluntary contributions, not tax dollars, support American Heart Association research. It's one way to keep research itself in good health.

The right way to exercise

Joggers cover the landscape these days, thanks to our growing awareness of health and how to maintain it.

But how many of us are aware of the proper way to exercise? After good exercise, according to the experts, we should experience a "pleasant sense of fatigue," not total exhaustion.

And if you're a beginner with a rather sedentary lifestyle, it's wise to check with your doctor to plan an exercise program that suits your needs. The doctor can give you an exercise test to determine your present capabilities and to identify any potential hazards.

Basic information is also available from health agencies like the American Heart Association in your area.

In selecting your physical activity, remember that it should be something you enjoy — and something you can enjoy the year around. It should be something rhythmic and repetitive, like jogging, roller skating, swimming or riding a bike. Exercise should challenge your circulatory system and the pumping action of your heart, at an intensity that is appropriate for you.

And remember your warm-up and cool-down periods so that you increase your heart rate gradually and bring it back to normal gradually.

Follow the program regularly, at least three times a week, preferably not on consecutive days.

And don't hunt for an excuse to avoid exercise!

WE COUNT THE PEOPLE WHO COUNT – YOUR CUSTOMERS

AS A CORNERSTONE for its economic survey and forecasting services, Marketing Economics Institute maintains a comprehensive library of information on the composition and change of U.S. industrial and consumer markets. MEI's nationally recognized team of professional demographers and economists update the county, city and city part files of the library on a continuous basis.

The timeliness and accuracy of the data reflect the attention to detail at local market level made possible by MEI's exclusive system of monitoring activity in all U.S. counties, more than 2,250 cities and towns and in the 40,000 key industrial plants which annually account for 80% of value added by U.S. manufacturing. The resources of the library are made available to regular clients on a contract basis, but individual files may be purchased singly by business planners and research specialists with specific needs. Marketing Economics Institute will provide any of these county data files on IBM cards or magnetic tape or will aggregate the data to custom designed client market area format.

MARKETING ECONOMICS will be happy to discuss how its exclusive demand/supply approach to sales analysis and its wide range of statistical techniques can be used to measure and forecast sales for your product lines.

Every time the experts think the Atlanta market's gotten as "good" as it can get, a new statistic comes out that proves them wrong. The way things look, this may never stop.

After having the #1 retail sales increase among the top 20 markets in 1984, Atlanta repeated the performance in 1985. Between January 1984 and April 1986, a new shopping center opened, broke ground or announced its intention to open in Atlanta almost every four days.

The number of adults with household incomes of $50,000 or more has increased 239% in the past five years. And Atlanta's projected to be the 10th fastest growing employment market in the U.S. through the year 2000.

There are a lot more numbers. You can see them in our new market book, Atlanta—Something to Boast About. Or in our 1986 Scarborough Atlanta Market Study, which shows what Atlanta shops for and where.

The point is, simply, take a closer look at Atlanta. Because the view just keeps getting better.

For more information about the Atlanta market, call the Atlanta Journal-Constitution Marketing Department at (404) 526-5283.
